BRITISH TAKE MORE THAN 10,000 PRISONERS

60 LARGE GUNS ALSO CAPTURED IN GOODLY GAINS

Allied Troops Continue to Envelop Cambrai and St. Quentin

HUN LOSSES ENORMOUS

After English Hammering, Germans Stir But Little From Their Trenches Yesterday

BULGARS STILL IN FULL FLIGHT

Czecho-Slovaks Compelled to Evacuate Three Towns by Teutons and Bolsheviki

(By the Associated Press.)

Thursday saw both the French and British armies in Picardy materially developing their plan for the eventual enveloping of St. Quentin and Cambrai. The British made further gains around Gouzeaucourt and east of Epehy, while the French, striking southeast of St. Quentin, brought the southern part of their nippers into a still better position for the squeeze against the town which daily seemingly is growing nearer.

More than 10,000 prisoners and in excess of 60 large guns fell into the hands of the British during the big operation begun by Field Marshal Haig Wednesday, northwest of St. Quentin. In addition, extremely heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy in the frontal attacks and during violent counter attacks made by them in an endeavor to recoup their losses of ground. So badly was the enemy hammered during this fighting that he did not attempt Thursday to stir from his trenches, except near Epehy and Gouzeaucourt, and to give listless battle on isolated sectors to the south.

Huns Viciously Counter Attack.

Northeast of Soissons, the Germans are counter attacking viciously against the Allied forces holding strategic positions which are threatening the high ground along the Chemin-des-Dames, which the enemy hopes to save as a temporary haven of refuge in the event of a forced retirement from the west and the south. The French everywhere repulsed the enemy.

Likewise, south of the Aisne, in the region of Courlandon, the Germans endeavored to beat back the French, but again met with defeat, the French artillery cutting the attacking waves to pieces.

Artillery Activity on American Front.

On the Lorraine front, there has been considerable mutual artillery shelling but no big infantry engagements. A raid attempted by the Germans against General Pershing's men northeast of Pont-a-Mousson came to naught.

In the Macedonian theatre, the Bulgarians are still in full fight before the Serbians, who have captured numerous towns, taken large numbers of prisoners and great quantities of war stores. Following the usual tactics of the Teutonic Allies, the enemy is devastating the country he traverses, leaving it a wilderness through the use of the torch and explosives.

In European Russia, the Bolsheviki and the Germans for the moment seem to have the upper hand over the Czecho-Slovaks, who have been compelled to evacuate Volsk, Simbrisk and Kazan.

Czecho-Slovaks Lack Ammunition.

The success of the enemy forces is attributed to a lack of ammunition and other supplies by the Czecho-Slovaks. In Trans-Caucasia, the British force which recently went to the relief of the besieged Armenians in Baku, has been compelled to withdraw into North Persia, in the face of the large Turkish forces and the ineffectiveness of the Russo-Armenian aid.

The inter-allied labor conference, in session in London, has unanimously adopted the 14 points President Wilson formulated as the only basis for peace, as labor's basis for the ending of the war. Likewise, unanimous approval was given the stand of President Wilson and the Entente Powers with regard to Austria's recent peace note.

Russia Still With the Allies.

Alexander Kerensky, the former Russian premier, addressed the conference. He said Russia had not left the Entente Allies and declared that his country had never recognized the peace of the Brest-Litovsk or ceased to struggle against the Germans. He added that members of the old constituent assembly were meeting secretly in Russia in an endeavor to form a government for the whole of Russia.

WAR NOT INTERRUPTED BY PEACE OFFENSIVE

Field Marshal von Hindenberg Issues Proclamation to German Army in the Field

Amsterdam, Holland, Sept. 19.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has issued a proclamation to the German army in the field, according to the Zeitung Am Mittag of Berlin, in which the German commander-in-chief alludes to the recent Austrian peace offer, saying that it does not involve an interruption in the war operations.

The field marshal adds that a readiness for peace is not in contradiction with the spirit with which Germany is waging the war. It is the army's duty, he said, to continue the struggle while waiting to see whether the enemy is sincere and ready for peace negotiations.

The text of the proclamation reads:

"The Austro-Hungarian government has proposed to all the belligerents a conference for a non-binding discussion of peace. War operations are not thereby interrupted. Readiness for peace is not in contradiction to the spirit with which we are waging the struggle for the home land.

"As early as December, 1916, the Kaiser, our supreme war lord, with his allies, offered peace to the enemy. The German government has often since then proclaimed its readiness for peace.

"The reply of the enemy was scorn and derision. The enemy governments incited their people and armies to continue the annihilating war against Germany. We have thus continued our defensive struggle.

Our Ally has now made a fresh proposal to hold a discussion. The fighting will not be interrupted.

"The army's task is to continue the struggle. In four victorious years of war, the German army has energetically protected the homeland and proved to the enemy our invincibility. Only by this means do we help break the enemy's will to destruction.

"While continuing to fight, we have to wait, to see whether the enemy is sincere and this time ready for peace negotiations, or whether he will again reject peace with us unless we are prepared to buy it on conditions which would destroy our people's future."

ALLEGE WAR FACTORY CHEATED GOVERNMENT

Ten Employes and Inspectors Held in Connection With Army Equipment Fraud

New York, Sept. 19.—Charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, ten employes and government inspectors at the factory of Rosenwasser Brothers, Inc., Long Island City, which has army contracts totaling $8,907,000, were arrested tonight by agents of the department of justice. Warrants also have been issued for Leo Rosenwasser, president of the corporation, and his brother, Morris Rosenwasser.

According to a statement made at the offices of the department of justice, reinspection of leather jerkins for aviators, made at the Rosenwasser plant, resulted in the rejection of more than 15 per cent. The garments are said to have been from one to three inches shorter than specifications, thus saving for the company an enormous amount of leather. High percentages of rejection of canvas leggins and spiral puttees also resulted from the reinspection, it was asserted.

The men who were arrested tonight were Lieutenant Samuel Grass, formerly inspector at the plant; Private George Simons, former clerk; Samuel Schwartz, William Sam, Abe Friedman and David Lebot Lebowitz, government inspectors, and Abe Weiss, Lewis Levy, Jacob Rosenberg and Ike Merlis, plant foremen.

Weiss, Rosenberg, Levy and Merlis were released on $4,000 bond, after arraignment before a United States commissioner in Brooklyn. The other men arrested were held in default of $10,000 bail.

The firm of Rosenwasser Brothers, Inc., which also has large government contracts for army shoes, has been under investigation by the war department for several months, according to the department of justice's agents. The inquiry followed charges of the use at the plant of government inspection stamps, the passing of defective material by inspectors, and the introduction into army shoes of paper in the place of leather. The results of these investigations never have been made public, but it is said they have been turned over to the department of justice for use in connection with the present investigation.

GERMANS QUIET ON BRITISH FRONT

Huns Fail to Renew On Large Scale Their Desperate Counter Attacks

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTS

English Troops Are Assisted by Novel Innovation Of A Machine Gun Barrage

(By the Associated Press).

With the British Army in France, Sept. 19, 2 p. m.—Despite the serious hold which the British established yesterday over the Hindenburg line by their capture of ridges northwest of St. Quentin, the Germans this morning continued to nurse their grievances without renewing on a large scale their costly counter attacks of last evening.

Fighting still proceeded, particularly on the extreme flanks of the battle front, where the British are cleaning out points and straightening their line, but the initiative remains entirely with them.

That the situation created by the British seizure of the long Hindenburg outpost line and the dominating heights in front of it, could not remain secondary for long, seems a foregone conclusion.

Whether the enemy would assay further heavy counter attacks depends entirely on the badly drained resources at his command, for the next move undoubtedly belongs to the Germans, since they must push the British back or continue to live with the naked sword hanging over them in this vital sector.

Enemy Losses Very Heavy.

The enemy losses yesterday were extremely heavy, both in early fighting and in the numerous counter attacks which were thrown in toward night, in a desperate attempt to recoup parts of the ground lost. The whole zone of the long battle front today was strewn with dead in field grey uniforms, and more than 8,000 prisoners were in the British cages.

The entire British operation has gone into a brilliant and important success, which was not forecast in the original limited plans. Not the least important feature of the victory was the slaughter inflicted on the enemy forces, particularly during their frenzied counter attacks, when they were mowed down like wheat with the machine guns, or swallowed up in a maelstrom of crashing shells from the British barrage.

Few Spectacular Incidents.

There were few spectacular incidents in yesterday's fighting, although the operations as a whole were spectacular enough when one considers that these gallant English and Australians had in many places to fight their way up three lines of ridges, with valleys intervening, working forward doggedly over slimy ground in the face of a vicious machine gun and rifle fire from a myriad of strongholds and from numerous villages and hamlets which had to be surrounded and crushed into submission.

On the right flank there was especially bitter fighting about Hoinon village. The British had captured part of this place the day before, but the Germans still held a section of it, with machine guns trained from every house. They had to be cleared out, and this had to be done systematically by small parties who dared the hostile fire and bombed the Huns out of their hiding places.

Serious Engagement East of Holnon.

A far more serious engagement was waged east of the village, where the Germans had constructed a quadrilateral trench system which was heavily armed. Here the contending forces struggled throughout the day at close quarters. The British toward evening gained a footing in the trenches and continued to press the attack during the night. Part of the system was still unsubdued this morning, and it was being stormed.

Throughout this sector there were pockets of German-manned machine guns. Between Holnon and Fresnoy-le-Petit were three little patches of wood; these fairly bristled with machine guns. They were finally cleared out, but it was a desperate adventure for those doughty English troops, who were charging through them amidst a hail of bullets, and bombed the occupants into silence.

The eastern part of Fresnoy was still in the hands of the enemy this morning, with the British holding the western section and pressing the defenders hard.

Alpine Troops Resist British.

At Ephey, where the renowned Germany Alpine troops were holding, a desperate battle was waged throughout the day. These enemy troops are perhaps the finest in the German army, big fellows who always fight like men infuriated. They probably would not be taken by direct assault, or in fact, in any other way until after a long heavy trench mortar bombardment, which greatly weakens the defences. Then the British advanced on their side and got it in a pocket.

Even then the Germans held until after nightfall, fighting hard from their dugouts and fortified buildings. The enemy delivered a counter attack here during the evening and forced the British back somewhat, but this ground was regained late in the night.

At Ronssoy the British got through easily. Six hundred Germans surrendered in one group at this point when surrounded.

Village of Lempire Captured.

Lempire was captured after a hard battle. The enemy to the south of Villers-Guislane contested the British advance fiercely, and the losses to the defending forces here were tremendous. The British got through Vaucelette farm west of Villehs-Guislane, without much trouble, but quickly ran into a German counter attack.

The advanced forces clashed in the open then, and a hand-to-hand struggle ensued with rifle and bayonet. The Germans were completely smashed and the ground was strewn with their dead. A further British advance was assistedby a novel innovation in the way of a machine gun barrage. Two hundred and fifty rifle firers were brought up and concentrated. The guns opened a terrific barrage, during which one of them plunged 25,000 rounds of ammunition into the German defences. The enemy was absolutely overwhelmed. Those upon whom it swept could neither retreat nor advance and large numbers surrendered.

English Railroad Strike Averted by Settlement

London, England, Sept. 19.—Announcement was made this evening that a settlement had been reached between the striking railroad employes and their employers. Thus the threatened railway strike has been averted.

James Henry Thomas, labor member of parliament and general secretary of the national union of railway men, announced that the dispute had been settled as the result of a conference between the executives of the National Union of Railway Men and the war cabinet.

The agreement provides for an increase of five shillings weekly for male and female workers over 18 years of age and two shillings, six pence, for those under 18. The government also is to appoint a committee to inquire into the question of equal pay for men and women for equal work.

BELGIUM NOT TO DISCUSS PEACE

Nation's Minister Declares Condition Cannot Be Taken as Basis For Parley

NO DIRECT OFFER MADE

Damage Unjustly Inflicted on Country Not Mentioned in Indirect Hun Proposal

(By the Associated Press.)

London, England, Sept. 19.—The Belgian foreign minister, discussing Germany's "peace approach" to Belgium, declared that the condition cannot be taken as a basis for any serious discussion. From the details furnished by the foreign minister, it appears that Belgium received no formal proposition directly from the German government, but that communications came by an indirect channel.

These showed that it was Germany's intention to demand that Belgium bind herself to effect a solution of the language question in conformity with the German imperial policy, which Belgium would regard as an abdication of the right inherent in her sovereignty to solve internal problems in accordance with the freely-expressed will of the Belgium people.

Germany would also claim full amnesty for Belgium's citizens guilty of helping the enemy plans and would thereby, according to the minister, impose upon Belgium an act of submission.

Germany would insist on the maintenance after the war of the commercial treaties previously enforced.

Finally, the obligations resting on Germany to repair the damage unjustly inflicted on its victim, was not even alluded to. Germany, the minister points out, would thus be enriched by the pillage of Belgium, whose ruin would be complete.

These indirect approaches made no reference to the eventual suspension of hostilities between Belgium and Germany, nor to the evacuation of Belgian territory.

GERMANS CELEBRATE "PEACE."

Amsterdam, Holland, Sept. 19.—Peace demonstrations by social democrats, were held today at Essen and Cologne and in a large number of towns in Saxony, according to a dispatch from Cologne, to the Dutch newspapers. Thousands of persons are said to have attended the meetings.

BREWERS USE HUN METHODS

$407,500 Is Donated to Fund For Purpose of Buying The Washington Times

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Idea Was to Purchase Paper That Would Be Antagonistic Neither to Beer or Germany

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—The federal custodian of alien property, A. Mitchell Palmer, made public today the names of the 15 brewers who, with the United Brewers' association, raised a fund of $407,500, from which $375,000 was loaned to Arthur Brisbane to buy the Washington Times.

Mr. Palmer acted immediately after the senate had passed a resolution introduced by Senator Jones of New Mexico calling upon the property custodian to show proofs on which he made his speech in Harrisburg, Pa., last Saturday, describing the efforts of brewers to control a newspaper in pro-German interests, to exert their influence upon congress and, finally, upon which he charged that the brewers' interest had advanced the money for the purchase of a newspaper to "fight the battles of the liquor traffic under the shadow of the dome of the capitol."

Brisbane Acknowledges Purchase.

Mr. Brisbane, in public statements in the Times, already has stated that he bought the paper with money loaned by C. W. Feigenspan, a brewer and president of the Federal Trust company of Trenton, N. J. Mr. Brisbane also has published a letter from Feigenspan defining an arrangement by which the loan was furnished by 15 brewers. Mr. Palmer includes in his disclosure this letter and also documents to support his assertion that the loan was made in a way to conceal its course and purpose.

Included in Mr. Palmer's papers are copies of letters written by Alexander Konta, evidently a German agent, to Captain Hans Tauscher, notoriously associated with German propoganda in the United States, and to Dr. Bernard Dernburg, Germany's peace propoganda agent, upon the prospects of buying some great American newspapers. Mr. Palmer connects these with his declaration that the influence which the brewers attempted to exert was thoroughly in the interests of Germany.

$375,000 Advanced to Brisbane.

The money advanced to Mr. Brisbane, amounting to $375,000, was advanced by Mr. Feigenspan, through the Growing Circulation corporation, which concern is understood either to be owned or controlled by Mr. Brisbane.

Contributions to the fund from which advances were made were received from the following:

George Ehrst, $50,000; C. W. Feigenspan, $25,000; Julius Liebmann, $25,000; J. C. G. Hupfel, $7,500; Jacob Ruppert, $50,000; Joseph E. Uhlern, $50,000; Edward Landsborg, $15,000; Reuter and Company, $15,000; A. J. Houghton Company, $10,000; William Hamm, $10,000; G. Pabst, $50,000; Fred Miller Brewing Company, $15,000; C. Schmidt and Son, $5,000; F. A. Poth and Son, $15,000; Bergner and Engel, $10,000; United States Brewing association, $30,000; and the United States Brewing Association Adv., $25,000.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT HOME

Assistant Secretary of Navy Returns from Trip Overseas—Suffers with Influenza Contracted on Trip.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, returning from a trip to Europe, has safely arrived at an Atlantic port. Secretary Daniels announced his return today and made public a cablegram to Mr. Roosevelt from Sir Eric Geddes, first sea lord of the British admiralty, expressing appreciation of the assistant secretary's visit.

New York, Sept. 19.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, is at the home of his mother, here, suffering from an attack of pneumonia, which developed from Spanish influenza contracted while on his voyage home from his recent visit to France and England. The illness is not serious, it was stated at his mother's home.

Mr. Roosevelt was brought to the home of his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, as soon as possible after his arrival on a government ship at an Atlantic port. Several other cases of Spanish influenza developed aboard the vessel during the voyage.

FRENCH PEACE REPLY MADE.

Paris, France, Sept. 19.—An official note issued tonight says that Foreign Minister Pichon in acknowledging to the Swiss minister the receipt of Austria's peace proposal, sent with his letter a copy of the official journal containing Premier Clemenceau's speech in the senate Wednesday.

This speech, he said, constituted France's reply to Vienna.

GERMAN IRON HAND AFFECTED FINLAND

Suppresion of Revolutionary Propaganda in Russian Provinces Told in Secret Documents

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—How the iron hand of the German general staff was extended into Finland through the German-paid Russian Bolshevik government, is pictured in today's installment of secret documents brought out of Russia for the American government. There are also some peremptory notes from the German military intelligence service to Trotzky, then the Bolshevik foreign minister, telling more of the story of the suppression of revolutionary propaganda in Russian provinces after it had played its part in throwing the provinces into German control.

When the Bolsheviki were slow about opening the way for complete sway for their masters in Finland, the German intelligence service had "the honor" to remind them that the withdrawal and disarming of the Russian Red Guard in Finland must be commenced immediately. Furthermore, the Russian agents were directed to send to Finland a trusty agent to deal with Yarvo Haapalainen, chief of the Finnish White Guard, who was disposed to be loyal to his country. This, Edgar Sisson, who procured the documents, explains in a note, accounts for the sudden withdrawal of the Red Guard last March, leaving Finland to her fate. Some of the Russians resisted disarmament, but they were beaten.

A series of curt orders from the intelligence service to Trotzky calls for the removal of all agitators from the Ukraine, Estland, Litva and Courland, and for the restoration of rights and property to German landlords who had been declared outlawed in Estland.

Other communications throw further light on assassination compacts between the Bolsheviki and anarchists, which have figured in earlier chapters of the series. A list of anarchists hired as "agents for the destruction of counter-revolutionists," includes several characters of international notoriety.

INCREASES IN EXPRESS RATES ARE APPROVED

Director General, After Favoring Application, Sends It to I. C. C. For Final Action

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Director General McAdoo has approved the application of the American Railway Express company for further rate increases estimated to yield $23,670,000 and has sent the proposal to the Interstate Commerce commission for final action. The commission announced tonight that house hearings on the matter will begin Thursday, October 8.

The amount realized by the recent advance in rates, approximately $10,000,000, has been absorbed entirely, Mr. McAdoo wrote the commission, in making wage advances to express employes. The Director General said he was satisfied there must be a further increase in wages and that some $12,000,000 of additional revenue would be neded for the purpose.

Accordingly, he said, he has asked the express company for a suggestion as to what advance should be made in present rates to yield the additional income. The company's memorandum was submitted to the Director General and forwarded to the commission.

Assuming that $12,000,000 express revenue must be obtained, the Director General requested the commission to determine whether the method suggested by the company was a proper one. If a different plan was deemed best, the commission was asked to indicate it.

PROBE PAPER'S EDITORIALS.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 19.—Alleged anti-recruiting editorials, printed last year in the New Jersey Freie Zeitung, will be reviewed by a jury as the result of Judge Haight's refusal in the federal court today to order a verdict of acquittal of Benedict and Edwin S. Preith, former publishers, and William von Katzler, one-time editor.

Upon completion of the evidence, counsels made their arguments late today and the case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow.

The defendant's attorney urged dismissal of the charge on the ground that there has no evidence to show that there had been a conspiracy on the part of his clients, as charged, nor to prove that the articles complained of obstructed enrollment in the nation's military forces.

GERMANY EXPECTS ARMISTICE.

Amsterdam, Holland, Sept. 19.—Konstatin Fehrebach, president of the German reichstag, declared in a recent interview that it was not improbable to hope for an armistice before winter, "despite the enemy's bellicose spouting." The interview was printed in the Rheinish Westphalian Gazette of Essen.

BIG REVENUE BILL NEARLY FINISHED BY LOWER HOUSE

Two Minor Amendments And Roll Call All That is Lacking

SENATE SOON TO ACT

House Makes Many Important Changes in Yesterday's Consideration of Measure

SODA FOUNTAIN TAX APPROVED

Would Cause Two-Cent Tax To Be Placed on Ice Cream, Soft Drinks, etc.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Excepting only a roll call on final passage tomorrow and disposal of two minor amendments, the $8,000,000,000 war revenue bill, which has been in the making since last May, was completed today by the house. The measure as it will go to the senate contains practically no modification of the major taxes on incomes, war profits and luxuries as drafted by the house ways and means committee. With senate consideration of the house draft to begin immediately, Secretary McAdoo today issued a statement that the treasury department would not ask at present for any increase in the bill's $8,000,000,000 tax levy.

Final Vote Expected Soon.

The vote on the final passage is expected soon after the house convenes and action has been taken on the two unfinished amendments—extension to potash mines of depletion allowances provided for oil and gas wells and mines, and a proposal to extend to all men in the military service the $3,500 income tax exemption provided in the bill, but now limited to those overseas.

In today's consideration of the bill, besides defeat of proposals for a tax of $3 a bale on cotton, the child labor amendment of Representative Green of Iowa, and a proposal to repeal the present mixed flour tax and regulation, the house made a number of important changes, but none without sanction of the ways and means committee.

Changes proposed by the committee and adopted by the house, are:

Extensions of the business license, or occupation tax of $10 annually to "persons engaged in any trade, business or profession," whose gross receipts exceed $2,500, with an additional $5 tax for wholesalers.

"Taxicab Tax" Is Eliminated.

Elimination of the so-called taxicab tax, which levied five per cent on gross receipts of persons operating three or more automobiles for hire, other than sight seeing machines.

A provision making the tax on soda fountains and soft drink retailers effective November 1, next. The tax is two cents on each ten-cent sale of soda water, ice cream, and similar articles.

A new amendment exempting entertainments for soldiers and sailors from amusement admission taxes.

CARDINAL'S BODY AT CATHEDRAL

Thousands Pay Respect to Cortege Which Accompanies Prelate's Remains to New York.

New York, Sept. 19.—The body of Cardinal John M. Farley was borne today with solemn ceremony from his modest summer home at Mamaroneck to St. Patrick's cathedral, where it will find its last resting place next Tuesday, in a crypt beneath the altar.

Starting at 1:30 p. m., the cortege proceeded slowly for nearly three hours through reverent, bare-headed throngs, until it reached the towering cathedral. Thousands of flags along the course, some draped in mourning, floated at half mast in tribute to the Cardinal, and scores of church bells tolled as the procession moved past.

Children from the parochial schools at Mamaroneck, Rye, Harrison and Port Chester formed a guard of honor, through which the cortege passed as it started on the 25-mile journey to the cathedral. One hundred of the children were grouped in the line of mourners.

Preceding the hearse, with its burden in a bronze casket, rode hundreds of church dignitaries, including Bishop Hayes, with a detachment of motorcycle police as a guard of honor.

RUSSIAN ASSEMBLY STILL MEETS

London, England, Sept. 19.—Alexander F. Kerensky, former Russian premier, told the inter-allied conference in session here today that the members of the old constituent assembly were meeting secretly in Russia and attempting to create a government for the whole of Russia.

CAPTIVE FIFTEEN DAYS ON U-BOAT

Skipper of Merchant Vessel Describes Life on Diver and in Hun Camps.

FOOD IS POOR AND SCARCE

Shifted From Prison Camp to Camp and Everywhere Conditions Are Same—Is Made to Suffer Many Indignities.

London.—Among those who recently have been released from German prison camps and who have reached this country via Switzerland is a captain of a merchant vessel who was taken prisoner by the commander of a submarine after his vessel had been torpedoed, and who spent 15 days in the U-boat. This was the second ship in which the British captain had been torpedoed. The captain's story follows:

"My ship was torpedoed without warning. The force of the explosion was so great that the bridge was wrecked, and when I recovered from the shock I found the ship was sinking. None of the crew was injured, and we were all able to get away in the boats.

"As we were in British waters and it was broad daylight, I did not fear that we would not soon reach land, but hardly had we pulled clear of the sinking ship than the U-boat emerged. The commander summoned us to his vessel and ordered me to go on board.

"I had arrived just in time for the midday meal, stew with stringy meat, which was probably horse flesh, small portions of sausage and black bread.

"While I was on board six steamers were torpedoed, and one sailing vessel sunk by gunfire, 39 shells being necessary to do this. The U-boat also attacked by gunfire several other steamers during the voyage; but had to submerge owing to intervention of British war vessels.

Depth Bombs Feared.

"On the third day I gathered that the U-boat was about to carry out an attack on a convoy which had been sighted. The boat approached under water for some distance, and torpedoed a large steamer. Our whereabouts were evidently detected, for we dived rapidly to a great depth. Hardly had the boat got on an even keel when we heard a tremendous explosion which caused the submarine to vibrate from stem to stern. It was a depth charge. The effect on the crew was evident. All stood trembling, with faces blanched with fear, not attempting to speak a word. No further explosions, however, took place, and after lying some eighteen fathoms deep for a long period we continued on our voyage.

"The submarine was equipped with powerful wireless apparatus, and every day, about 9 a. m. remained on the surface in wireless communication with the base. One of the officers kept a record of these messages. One night the news arrived of the American declaration of war. It was eagerly discussed by the crew, some of whom expressed the hope that they would be allowed to go on submarine service in the Gulf of Mexico in order to escape the severity of the North sea.

"Eventually the submarine arrived at Helgoland and I was taken ashore and handed over to a military guard. My only food was a crust of bread, a piece of cheese and some very weak soup. After remaining there a day and a half I was taken to Wilhelmshaven where again there seemed to be a shortage of food, and afterward to Brandenburg, a workingmen's camp, in which I remained until October 3. It was at this camp that I got the news of the murder of prisoners who were forced to remain in a hut which had caught fire. When I arrived at Brandenburg I was put in a large hut quite alone. Here I came in contact with 300 victims of the Moewe, and subsequently was transferred to a special part of the camp set apart for captains of the mercantile marine, of whom there were about forty. The food was of the coarsest possible character. From Brandenburg I went to Holzminden, an officers' camp for all British, where the food was much better, but we were obliged to pay considerable sums toward our maintenance.

Suffers Many Indignities.

"Later I was transfered to Strohen, where, instead of current coin of the realm, they issued stamps as camp money. From Strohen I went to Heidelberg.

"I was transferred to Switzerland and eventually was released and enabled to reach England June 19.

"At Brandenburg we were made to suffer various indignities, and were made to harness ourselves to carts which we had to draw through the streets to the station or post office, to fetch our parcels and any commodities to camp. It was at this camp also that I saw 300 Russian soldiers working in the last stages of consumption. The poor fellows could not get enough to eat, and they would eagerly scrape discarded tins in the hope of finding particles of food. I have even seen German soldiers do the same thing. We were glad to search the cinder paths in the hope of finding coke or coal with which to cook our food."

Use of Orange Oil.

Unadulterated orange oil has a strong aroma and is used in the making of perfumes, essences, soaps and beverage flavors as well as of cakes and confectionery. The principal use for Jamaica orange oil is in the manufacture of fancy biscuits, particularly of a wafer biscuit which is used extensively with ices and iced drinks.—Gas Logic.

Lieutenant Commander Carpendor of the United States navy, who received the distinguished service order from King George.

TO ENROLL DOCTORS

Every Physician in Country Is to Be Listed.

National Defense Council Will Mobilize Them for Civil and Military Work.

Washington.—Dr. Franklin Martin, chairman of the general medical board of the council of national defense, explains the scope and function of the volunteer medical service corps, in which it is proposed to enroll every legally qualified physician in the country, including women, without reference to age or physical disability.

"It is a method of recording all physicians who are not yet in service and of classifying them so that their services when required will be utilized in a manner to inflict as little hardship on the individual as possible," Doctor Martin writes. "It is a method by which every physician not in uniform will be entitled to wear an insignia which will indicate his willingness to serve his government.

"The object of the corps is to place on record all medical men in the United States; to aid the army, navy and public health service in supplying war needs; to provide the best civilian service possible; to give recognition to all who record themselves.

"Civilian service will be supplied under a fixed plan. Every one in the corps will receive proper credit for service rendered, and ample medical attention will be assured for all requiring it. There will be four tentative classes, consisting of fit-to-fight men under forty, reserves under fifty-five, home forces over fifty-five, and ineligibles. Reserves may be called on occasion for army, navy, public health and civilian service the home forces being those able to perform only civilian service."

Service of members of the corps will be called and rendered in response to requests from the central governing board, in which the management of the corps will be vested. State boards will appoint executive committees to receive applications for enrollment in the corps and will make recommendations concerning them to the central governing board.

TAKE 60 HUNS WITHOUT SHOT

Americans Bag Big Bunch of Yellow Barbarians North of Fismes.

With the American Army on the Vesle Front—Sixty Prussians have been taken prisoner by the Americans near Fismette, north of Fismes, without either side firing a shot. The Prussians were machine gunners, and all that remained of a company which had been in line less than a month.

American detachments went out a few nights ago, the location of the machine gun positions having been reported by a prisoner. According to the Americans, the Prussians were waiting to be taken prisoner. The intelligence officer who questioned the Prussians asserted that they nearly all had agreed to surrender if the slightest opportunity arose.

The Americans who took the prisoners do not claim any credit for the capture, declaring that the Prussians virtually deserted their post".

Housefly Can Move Fast.

A housefly is not by inclination much of a traveler. But, when it wants to travel, it goes fast. Experiments have shown that, when pushed, it can cover 160 feet per second, or about 110 miles an hour straightaway.

"HAIL, HAIL," GREETS YANKEES IN FRANCE

Gary, Ind.—"Hail, hail, the gang's all here!"

Thousands of the 1918 edition American tourists who are daily arriving "somewhere in France" look up, joy in their faces and a warm glow in their hearts, as groups of little French kiddies sing this homely refrain as they line the gangways.

According to a letter received here recently early arrivals of the American expeditionary forces have taught this greeting to the children, who pass it on as each new contingent arrives.

"Hail, hail, the gang's all here!"

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

The New York Markets.

New York, Sept. 19.—Absence of any special influence, except in isolated instances, made trading in the stock market today of a wholly perfunctory character. The stagnancy was relieved only by the strength exhibited by a few individual stocks.

Stocks which were at the forefront during the upward turn of yesterday found renewed support at intervals today, and the general tone suggested a gradual clearing up of the influences which have held bullish initiative in restraint.

Decreased activity in the steels was attributed to a disposition to await the outcome of the Washington conference, at which an appeal was presented for price increases. Especial strength was manifested in the Shippings, notably Atlantic Gulf, which advanced four points to 106 on reviver reports of a new combination of maritime interests. Profit taking brought about sharp recessions in the oil groups after an early period of strength, in which Texas company and Mexican Petroleum reached new high levels.

Monetary conditions were unaltered. Call loans were freely made at six per cent, but time funds were unavailable, business consisting entirely of paying off of maturities.

Liberty bonds showed a yielding tendency in spots, and other issues also inclined lower. United States bonds, old issues, were unchanged on call.

by the use of Cane Mola, which is 100 per cent pure sugar cane molasses. W. F. Henry and F. B. Morrison in their book "Feeds and Feeding" say:

"For facilitating the disposal of unpalatable and inferior roughage, as a tonic for horses and cows out of condition, and as a colic preventive for horses, from two to three pounds of molasses per head daily is helpful and may be advantageously fed to fatten steers, especially during the finishing period when the appetite is fickle."

CANE MOLA

Again, Mr. G. H. Berns in the "American Veterinary Review" says:

"Molasses of a good quality is a most nutritious food for horses, easily digested and assimilated and will in many cases correct faulty digestive process; and horses will do fully as much work and at the same time remain in better condition than animals fed on dry feed, while the cost of feeding is reduced from 25 to 35 percent."

This also applies to other stock, such as cows, pigs, sheep, etc.

Cane Mola contains about 55 per cent pure sugar, and is therefore remarkably rich in carbohydrates. Not only that, but it adds such a degree of palatability and digestibility to rough feeds that its use is imperative to economical and efficient feeding.

RABBITS A PEST NO LONGER

Australia Finds the One-Time Curse a Profitable Source of Revenue.

Washington.—Rabbits, which were once the curse of Australia, as they have been to a lesser extent in the southwestern United States, now are providing a profitable source of revenue and at the same time helping to win the war by increasing the food supply.

Official dispatches received here say the British board of trade has ordered 600,000 crates of skinned rabbits, which will require the killing of 21,600,000 rabbits, weighing 36,000,000 pounds after dressing. Previously the raboits were shipped with the skins on, but inconvenience was experienced at hospitals in England in removing the fur.

How to dispose of the skins is causing the Australians speculation. There is a ready market for them in this country, but tonnage is scarce.

CAN'T KEEP A GOOD SHIP DOWN

Half of Torpedoed Craft of Great Britain Have Been Salvaged.

METHODS GREATLY IMPROVED

Much Greater Weights Than Believed Possible Are Now Being Lifted—No Hope of Ever Raising Lusitania.

London.—Of 400 British ships sunk in the last two and a half years at least 50 per cent have been raised from the bottom of the sea. The organization responsible—the Admiralty Salvage department—is composed entirely of experts employed by a commercial firm which engaged in the business before the war. Ships were so cheap then, however, that often it did not pay to raise a sunken wreck and restore her to seagoing condition.

Things are very different now, and the result is that invention has been stimulated to an extraordinary extent.

It used to be considered that 1,500 tons was the greatest weight that could be lifted from under water by wire ropes. A sunken government collier that was obstructing a fairway was lifted out of the mud recently and carried away by four lifting ships, with sixteen 9-inch wire ropes, and the deadweight carried was calculated at 2,750 tons. The wreck was shifted one mile at the first lift, and so was gradually taken to the beach, patched up and sent off to the repairing yard. She went back into service and made several voyages before a torpedo ended her career altogether.

Cannot Raise Lusitania.

Ships sunk in deep water cannot be salved. It is not expected that the Lusitania, for example, will ever be lifted. Divers cannot work in more than 25 fathoms successfully, though for special purposes they may sometimes go down to 35 fathoms for a brief spell of work.

The bulk of the ships saved have been sunk in less than 20 fathoms, or have been towed inshore by rescue tugs, and have gone aground in fairly easy positions.

The salvage men face considerable risks, not only from bad weather but also from submarine attack. Only one salvage ship, however, has been lost through enemy action.

One of the largest oil tank steamships was mined and caught fire. There was a heavy explosion and the decks were flooded with burning oil. The cargo consisted largely of benzine. Most persons would conclude that the case was hopeless. Not so. The vessel was scuttled by gun fire and thus the fire was extinguished. Then divers plugged all the shot holes, besides closing other apertures. On being pumped out the vessel floated and was forthwith taken to a repairing port.

New Pump Is Valuable.

As showing how valuable is the new submersible electric motor pump, a recently torpedoed ship which carried a cargo (mainly foodstuffs) of more than $15,000,000 value had a hole 40 feet long by 28 feet deep in her side. She was taken in tow by rescue tugs, but went down before time had served to beach her suitably. No ordinary pumping power would have served the need, but the new type pump enabled stokehold, engine room and all her after holds to be pumped out, so that cargo could be discharged and the vessel taken higher up the beach. Then the lightening process was continued until the vessel was floated and taken into dock, practically all her cargo being saved.

The number of the ships of the mercantile marine actually salved by the department in two years from 1915 to 1917 was 260. All these vessels were of big tonnage. For the present year the monthly totals of such vessels salved were: January, 14; February, 41; March, 37; April, 36, and May, 19. Thus the department has saved 407 important vessels of the mercantile marine. This does not include vessels salved outside of home waters.

The larger figures of the latter period were due, not to increased enemy activity but to improved salvage methods.

Many risks are run by the divers, particularly from gases generated by decomposed vegetables and meat in the holds of sunken ships, deaths having resulted from this cause. Grain, it seems, develops sulphuretted hydrogen, which occasions blindness and violent sickness.

A chemist, however, has found a preparation which when sprayed on a rotting cargo immediately kills the gases and enables men to carry on their work in safety.

Pittsburgh Housewife

Tells How Hard Working Women May Keep Well and Strong.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I keep house for my husband and myself and I got into a weak, run down, nervous condition and had no appetite. I heard how Vinol helped others and tried it and it built me up so I am strong, have a good appetite and feel better in every way."—Mrs. Daniel C. Neff.

The reason Vinol was so successful in the case mentioned is because it contains the very elements needed to build up a weakened, run down system, make rich, red blood and create strength.

English women foresters are taking the place of the men at the front. Here are two of the land workers engaged in putting a sharp edge on their ax for tomorrow's roll. These women are showing themselves to be worthy successors of Britain's lumbermen. The felled trees in the back are a proof of that.

D'ANNUNZIO GETS EVEN

Poet-Airman of Italy Raids Pola in Reprisal.

Austrians Having Attacked His Quarters, He Drops Bombs on Their Naval Arsenal.

By WARD PRICE

Italian Headquarters at the Front.—Maj. Gabriele d'Annunzio, Italy's poet-airman, who led the raid on Vienna, has carried out an adventurous personal reprisal for an Austrian night air raid during which one of the enemy machines dropped a bomb literally within yards of his sleeping quarters. The bomb did not explode, but its impact knocked over and broke a glass from which d'Annunzio had drunk an hour before. The soldier-poet gayly started off in the afternoon with his pilot in a new type of a fast, weight-carrying land machine, flew about one hundred miles straight across the Adriatic sea to Pola, the Austrian naval base, dropped 14 bombs on the arsenal and returned safely to his aerodrome.

"I was waiting there when he arrived amid a round of cheers from his squadron.

"There was a heavy barrage fire," he told us, "and once I thought our trail had been struck. But not a single one of the Austrian chaser machines got up after us. The Austrians were very keen to get me, but they missed a good chance this afternoon."

D'Annunzio will wear henceforth in his flights an ivory-hilted dagger. This weapon is the distinctive mark of the Italian storm troops, and all the eight airmen who took part in the raid on Vienna have been named by their comrades "The Storm Troops of the Air."

YANKEES GIVE HUNS CHRISTIAN BURIAL

Mercy Is Shown to Dead and Wounded Enemy by Americans.

Paris.—The spirit which prompted America's entrance into the world war perhaps cannot be better exemplified than the way in which German wounded who fall into American hands are cared for. It is likewise evidenced in the Christian burial given German dead and in the care taken by the Americans to properly mark their graves.

For while the creed of the American soldier is to give no quarter in battle, those wounded are given every consideration when they call out that they have surrendered. Then it is that mercy is shown.

In a little cemetery near Meaux there are now graves of about thirty Germans, each of whom was given a Christian burial and each grave was marked with a neat black cross, upon which the name of the German was inscribed. A few yards away is another cemetery—that of French and Americans. The only difference in the manner of burial is that the American and French graves are marked with white crosses.

Moreover, caretakers of the cemetery, whenever they have placed flowers on the graves of fallen heroes of the allied armies, have also strewn the ground covering the enemy's soldiers with flowers. The cemetery itself is as neatly looked after as that of the Americans and French.

GERMANY USES HAM MONEY

Food Depicted on Bills With Wistful Mottoes.

The German city of Niederlahnstein on the Rhine has issued some original paper money of its own. The bills show on one side a fat ham and on the other side some turnips.

Above the ham there is a quotation from one of Schiller's well known poems, saying: "O tender longing, sweetest hope."

Above the turnips is printed the beginning of a well known German folk song, saying: "Thus we live, thus we live—in 1918."

HOW THIS NERVOUS WOMAN GOT WELL

Told by Herself. Her Sincerity Should Convince Others.

Christopher, Ill.—"For four years I suffered from irregularities, weakness, nervousness, and was in a run down condition. Two of our best doctors failed to do me any good. I believe the Compound will cure any female trouble."—Mrs. Alice Heller, Christopher, Ill.

Nervousness is often a symptom of weakness or some functional derangement, which may be overcome by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as thousands of women have found by experience.

If complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions in regard to your ailment. The result of its long experience is at your service.

GIVES UP LUXURIES

Canada Goes Limit to Help Win War.

People Refuse to Spend Money for Anything Except Patriotic Funds.

Vancouver, B. C.—Here are a few signs showing what Canada is doing to help win the war by conservation in civilian life.

The biggest result has been prohibition. The Dominion is dry as the Sahara.

The consumption of candy has been cut 50 per cent.

Picture shows and theaters have shrunk in number to a marked degree.

You can travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific and never see a piano, a phonograph, violin or other musical instrument offered for sale. Everyone is wearing his old clothes.

"Why should we buy luxuries and music when our defenders need bread and the Red Cross is begging for mercy funds?" the Canadian reasons.

Travel is falling off. The summer tourist is becoming rare. One of the largest resorts in the Canadian Rockies has an average of only 30 guests, with more than twice as many servants and 500 rooms.

A street sweeper would be put in the zoo. He's nearly an extinct animal. You'll find him unloading ships and working in mines. And a water wagon—it's in the has-been class.

Canadians are chiefly concerned with getting enough to eat and wear.

War's influence is everywhere. Three of the buffalo kept by the government at Banff Springs broke off diplomatic relations and destroyed each other in a vicious battle of horns.

HALF SALARY GOES TO WAR

Candidate for Prosecuting Attorney at Seattle Makes Unusual Promise.

Seattle, Wash.—Thomas D. Page, who is a candidate on the Republican ticket for the nomination of prosecuting attorney of this county, makes the unusual promise that if elected he will devote at least one-half of his salary to war purposes.

Page says he will give $1,600 of his salary to the Red Cross, the Young Men's Christian association, the Knights of Columbus and the Salvation army, divided equally. He also promises to invest $2,000 in Thrift stamps, so that at least the salary for one-half his term will be devoted to the war.

A Talk With An Oneonta Man

Mr. G. F. Sprague of 497 Main Street, Tells of His Experience

There is nothing like a talk with one of our own citizens for giving hope and encouragement to the anxious sufferer from the dread kidney disease. We, therefore, give here an interview with an Oneonta man:

"Some years ago I was down and out with my kidneys," says Mr. Sprague. "I had sharp pains in my sides and in the small of my back and I could hardly stand at times. When I beat over it was difficult for me to straighten up and my rest was disturbed by the irregular action of my kidneys. The kidney secretions were highly colored and contained a brick dust-like sediment, too. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking six boxes I was cured."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—Get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Sprague had. Foster-Milburn company, manufacturers, Buffalo, N. Y.

ADVERTISING A Necessity

WHEN goods are scarce and prices high, people are more appreciative than ever of the right kind of advertising.

They are seeking information. They want to know how to buy to the best advantage.

They want to know how to fill their needs and avoid waste. They welcome news of desirable substitutes for the things the country needs to conserve.

They read the newspapers carefully.

The merchant or manufacturer who does not advertise is not only missing the purely selfish opportunity, but he is failing in the service he owes to his customers.

PRIDE IN BOND BUYING.

A healthy rivalry between communities is stimulating and beneficial. Community pride is responsible for much of the enterprise, the improvement, the progress noticeable among American cities. In no field has it more legitimate place than in the buying of Liberty Bonds.

The rivalry which sets teams of men to selling bonds so that the home town may run up a bigger total than its neighbor is a great help to the government in disposing of a Liberty Bond issue. The enlistment of representative men in each community means that no class or group of citizens will be overlooked in the canvass. Canvassers are up on their toes. They adopt every device to stimulate interest in their campaign. Great enthusiasm is created which produces not only bond subscriptions, but a keener interest in the war and a greater determination to do all that is possible to win it.

In the coming campaign for the sale of the Fourth Liberty Loan this community pride will be used to the utmost. The government's need for money to keep the war moving to success is pressing. The loan is to be a huge one. All previous efforts must be surpassed.

If Germany should get the notion that the people of the United States were not completely and unreservedly behind this war, the result would be a heartening of her workers and her soldiers which would measurably prolong the conflict and so cost this country many thousands of valuable lives and many millions of dollars. The problem of America is not only to win the war, but to win it quickly and at as small cost as may be. Money and men used now are more valuable than money and men put into the fray a year from now.

By its policy of widening the ages for military service, the government has shown its complete appreciation of that fact. It remains for the public to show its complete acceptance of the fact by lending its dollars now promptly and without stint. Each community will do its share—that goes without saying. It is the margin over the quota which may be produced by a keen, generous rivalry with the neighboring community which will roll up the amount of oversubscription necessary to constitute the proper kind of a message to the enemy about America's will to win.

NAVAL DIRIGIBLE LANDED.

Bound from Ohio to Atlantic Seaboard and Lost Its Way.

The dirigible balloon which passed over Oneonta and surrounding towns late Wednesday afternoon and which has caused much comment, has been identified as a government airship, which was lost and flew out of its course, the pilots having lost their way in the heavy fog.

The strange craft, it is said, left Akron, Ohio, at 4 a. m. and was bound for a naval station on the Atlantic seaboard with three occupants. Lieut. George Crompton, Gunner W. J. Meduskey and Chief Machinist's Mate J. O. Nichols. It became lost and flew aimlessly around in this vicinity and later in the Albany district. The first town near here to observe the craft was Franklin, where the machine circled about for some time, the men, evidently, trying to locate their position. The dirigible then flew to Otego and thence up the valley to Oneonta, where it was seen about 4:15 p. m.

After having been in the air more than 16 hours, much of the time high above the clouds, at an altitude of 5,000 feet, the machine came to earth at Greylock, Mass., Wednesday night. No one was hurt in landing though the big bag tore down several high tension wires. The balloon was packed for shipment. It is understood that the dirigible was compelled, on account of the fog, to travel above the clouds much of the time and when it became dusk, thinking they had reached their destination, the crew landed. After arranging for the care of their balloon the three naval officers went to North Adams, Mass., where they remained over night. Lieut. Crompton would not talk about his mission or give any details of his flight, further than to say he had been lost in the fog.

Notes From the Public Library.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Blackall, librarian of the Oneonta Public library, left Thursday morning for Lake Placid in the Adirondacks, where she will attend the annual meeting of the New York Library association, which will be held at Lake Placid club. Miss Thelma Townsend will assist Miss Cope during her absence.

With the assistance of Miss Catherine Curtis good progress has been made this summer on the catalogue. The fiction is now all listed up to date, and every novel can be found in the card catalogue under both the author's name and the title.

About 30 new juvenile books will be ready for loaning on Saturday. There is also ready to use in the reference section a comprehensive encyclopedia of agriculture, which treats all phases of farm, garden and orchard work, including animal husbandry. The work is well indexed.

SUNDRY COMMENT OF THE PRESS

Run up the White Flag.

Austria wants peace, but has been so harassed she has forgotten the correct way to signify her desire.

The Austro-Hungarian government has officially invited all belligerent governments to enter into non-binding discussions at some neutral meeting place with a view to bring about peace. All neutral countries are to be invited to participate.

Why non-binding discussion?

When Austria-Hungary has anything to propose not so pitifully suggestive of trying to pull Germany's chestnuts out of the fire, let the world hear further.

Hurry forward the divisions and on with the war. This is no time for non-binding discussions or talk of any kind.—[New York Telegram.

A Nation-Wide Reply.

If it is possible to communicate across the great abyss, the soul of every brave American who has given his life upon the blood stained fields of France and Flanders for the cause of liberty will voice protest. Every American soldier now in France or elsewhere will spurn the suggestion. Every red blooded American from Maine to California, from the great lakes to the Rio Grande, from Alaska to Hawaii and the Philippines—every man and woman and child who thinks Americanism—will join those brave Americans overseas, the dead and the living, in their protest against the American government and the governments of our Allies putting their heads into the mouth of the Prussian Beast.—[New York Herald.

Hapsburg Rulers Desperate.

Intensely as Austria-Hungary longs for peace and much, undoubtedly, as she would be willing to pay for it, there is no reason but to distrust the sincerity and honesty of her motive in proposing to the belligerents, especially America and the Entente coalition, that they enter into unofficial, non-binding, confidential discussion and exchange of terms with her and her allies. That is true, even if one gives the Vienna government the benefit of every doubt and assumes that it is acting upon its own initiative and not at the instigation and with the connivance of the dominant partner of the quadruple alliance.—[Utica Press.

No Basis for Negotiations.

The Socialists of Germany favor surrendering Belgium, which, indeed, the German government has offered to do, but they will not consider the compensation of Belgium, or a referendum on Alsace-Lorraine. So long as the main body of the German socialists takes this ground, not going an inch beyond the wholly inadequate proposals of the German government, there can be no basis for negotiations. It means that the elements in Germany which are ready for the steps essential as a preliminary to peace are still but a weak minority that cannot impose their will upon the government.—[Springfield Republican.

No Parley with Liars.

Peace talk by the present imperial government of Germany is an utter waste of breath. The trouble is with the talkers. They have no standing in the honorable world. Their promises are valueless their detailed offers are unworthy of so much as a passing notice. The trouble is so deep-seated and far-reaching that the making of peace involves first of all the complete repudiation by the German people of these men whose one avowed creed, backed up by open practice, is fraud and deceit. With a government which has not only preached the doctrine of broken faith as a thing to be justified by national self-seeking, but which also has acted on that theory a score of times during the past four years, no sane nation can possible hold a parley.—[Lowell Courier-Citizen.

Insult to Belgium and Humanity.

Coming as it does simultaneously with the Austrian plan for an informal and indeterminate peace conference, Germany's offer to Belgium indicates that the Teutonic diplomacy is blundering along as stupidly as ever. Nothing could have been calculated to anger the Entente governments and peoples more deeply than the tender of peace to Belgium upon the terms described, and coupled as it is inseparably with the Austrian note it stamps the latter conclusively as insincere and unworthy of serious consideration.—[Washington Star.

THROWN OUT ON PAVEMENT.

Mrs. Ernest Vanderburg and Infant Child Suffer Slight Injuries.

Last evening, about 9 o'clock, when Ernest Vanderburg, wife and child in their Ford car were turning from Walling avenue into Main street and intending to drive toward the business section, a trolley car being in the act of passing the street intersection, another automobile with no lights lit shot from behind the car as if to enter Walling avenue. Mr. Vanderburg turned quickly to avoid being hit by the approaching motor car and turned his front end so quickly that it collided with the rear end of the trolley car step. The blow had the effect of throwing Mrs. Vanderburg and child from the car out upon the pavement. It was first thought that they had been seriously injured, but when they reached the Fox hospital it was found that neither sustained any serious injuries, both being shaken up some and the babe having slight contusions of the skin about the face. They both returned to their home in a short time.

The motorist who was driving without lights proceeded on across Walling avenue in apparent haste, not halting to even inquire if anyone had been injured. His identity was, it is believed, later established and it is quite likely that he will be called before the city judge as he is a resident of the city. The front of the Vanderburg car was somewhat damaged.

BONE DRY OTSEGO TOWNSHIP

Every Liquor Tax Proposition Defeated Yesterday by Big Majority—Women Voters Outnumber Men.

Following the example of her sister township of Richfield, which a few days ago voted a second time on the liquor tax proposition and ratified the no-license vote of last November, the town of Otsego voted again yesterday and in the size at least of no-license majorities, went Richfield several better. Not only was every proposition voted down out by such a majority as is conclusive of the will of her citizens. The vote on each proposition is:

First Proposition—First district, yes 49, no 365; second district, yes 47, no 251; third district, yes 37, no 256; fourth district, yes 43, no 274. Majority against license, 976.

Second Proposition — First district, yes 51, no 358; second district, yes 47, no 252; third district, yes 26, no 270; fourth district, yes 44, no 268. Majority for no-license, 941.

Third Proposition — First district, yes 112, no 300; second district, yes 108, no 194; third district, yes 85, no 220; fourth district, yes 96, no 219. Majority for no-license, 532.

Fourth Proposition — First district, yes 58, no 351; second district, yes 52, no 245; third district, yes 56, no 351; fourth district, yes 47, no 268. Majority for no-license, 903.

The women were active in the campaign, and it is estimated that more women than men voted, though had only the men voted the result would unquestionably have been the same. The only proposition which any one had thought in doubt was that for drug store license, and that, thought it received a larger vote, was defeated by figures that only by contrast seem small.

It is believed that the result in Otsego will have its effect in the town of Middlefield. That town went wet by only five votes last year, and there seems no question now that all will be defeated.

NEW YORK MAN INJURED.

Samuel Sandler Knocked Down by Auto on Main Street Last Evening.

At about six o'clock last evening a man giving his name as Samuel Sandler and his home as New York city, was struck by an automobile just above the McCrum store on Main street and was knocked down and injured about the head. He was taken to the Fox Memorial hospital, where the cut on his head, which did not appear to be considerable, was dressed by Dr. Marsh. He is still at the hospital and last evening it was learned from that institution that his condition did not appear to be at all serious.

The accident was of a familiar type. Mr. Sandler was attempting to cross the street when an auto came from behind the one which he was passing and struck him before he had sufficient warning to get out of the way. The street at the hour named was crowded with cars, and with pedestrians at this point, and perhaps it is remarkable that more accidents did not happen.

The most important fact in the case appears to be that the car, which was a Ford, in which there are reported to have been three men, took advantage of the fact that the police and others were busy with the injured man to get away without giving their names or the number of the car. The latter, however, is understood to have been secured and it may save the owner trouble if he communicates with Chief Blizard before he receives an answer to an inquiry at the office of the Secretary of State in Albany. To run away without leaving the required information in case of accident is a serious offense and carries with it a heavy penalty.

'TWAS MOTORISTS' DAY

THEY CAME FROM LONG DISTANCES AND IN DROVES TO ONEONTA FAIR.

Successful Day's Exhibition with Throng Well Pleased with Races and Amusement Features — Floral Parade a Marked Success, Will Be Repeated Today — Fair Continues on Saturday.

There were doubtless some motor cars in Otsego and adjoining counties which were not upon the Oneonta fair grounds or parked along the sides of the streets of this city yesterday, but it would be easy to believe that all—to the very last one— were here, so numerous were they, nearly blocking many of the streets, while at the grounds they were packed in almost as closely as were the spectators in the big grand stand, the sight of which latter congestion made the managing directors of the big fair smile the smile of satisfaction. It was certainly motorists' day at the fair, the number coming in them over previous years making up it seemed at least fore the inability of the management to secure excursion trains, which were tabooed by the officials of the government in charge of railroad operation. While perhaps larger crowds were seen in former years when the fair continued only four days, on what was known as the big day, it was one of the big crowds of recent years. The day was ideal for a fall fete and the crowd enjoyed it immensely. Rarely have the throng in the grand stand remained seated so long, the best possible evidence that the amusements provided afforded the maximum satisfaction.

Appeal for Liberty Loan.

Next to the motor cars and the Floral parade, to which latter reference is made, one of the notable features of the day was an appeal for financial support of the government in the present crucial time in the world's history. It was a forceful and incontrovertible appeal — in fact one of the very strongest made here since the entrance of America into the war. The speaker was Colonel W. F. Boult of Bound Brook, N. J., one of the first Y. M. C. A. workers to go to the front and it is much to be regretted that the pressure upon our space and the lack of printers prevents an extended summary of the address. It brought home to all that each individual at home has a definite duty to perform if the American flag is to be carried to Berlin, it being quite essential that the men at the front be equipped with guns, munitions, food and the sinews of war, without which they can make no progress. The duty to supply them with all of these is ours and if we fail in the duty civilization and the future of mankind has imposed upon us it may go undone. Patriotism means vastly more for each and all than to cheer, an expression of these sentiments. We must show the world that the men, women and children at home are as brave and self-sacrificing as the boys at the front. You remember the couplet under the picture of the first three, Hay, Enright and Gresham, "Give till it hurts. They gave till they died." Let your sacrifices be such as you will wish they had been when you meet the boys when they come back, or when you are telling your grandchildren in future years, and as they ask you what you did to help win the struggle.

The Day's Amusements.

Some alarm was felt among spectators when the balloonist, Prof. Hartzinger, found that the ropes of his parachute were twisted when high in air, after a fine ascension. He was observed working at the ropes to shake them free to work so that the parachute would open and he and the balloon settled some distance before he finally managed to get them free. He had plenty of room, however, when he cut loose and landed safely near the woods west of the grounds. There was no apprehension, however, at the tent of Mr. Phelps, where it was said that the balloon would have settled slowly with little attendant danger.

The roof garden attractions, to which extended reference was made in Wednesday's Star, were all there with their best acts, the crowd manifesting especial preference perhaps for the acts of Little Hip and Napoleon the Great, the trained elephant and baboon, for the Maclarens in their musical act, and Torrelli's Comedy Circus.

Floral Parade the Big Feature.

As always since the floral parade was inaugurated as a part of the Oneonta fair—and it is a feature which since that time many other similar societies have adopted—it was a prominent part of the exhibition of Thursday, which thus far at least was the fairest of the days of the fair. Beneath a cloudless sky and with the September sun dispensing a warmth which, after the previous days, was most grateful, the parade moved promptly at 1 o'clock, and preceded by S. B. Gardner as marshal and led by the Oneonta City band, the handsomely decorated horse-drawn vehicles, the gaily caparisoned steeds, the flower-covered automobiles, the well-conceived and finely bedecked floats, the bicycles and the baby carriages on which the blossoms without were only rivaled in sweetness by the flower of the family within, made the circuit of the grounds. Applause attended it all about the half-mile track, and when it halted in front of the judges' stand for the award of prizes there was keen interest on the part of the thousands who filled every available foot of the grand stand opposite as to which among the many competitors in many classes would bear off the honors.

The judging, which this year was done by Mr. Woodruff of Binghamton, who is the very efficient starter for the races, was speedily and satisfactorily done; and if there was pos-

PROFITABLE CONFERENCE OF COMMITTEES FROM TOWNS OF COUNTY.

Inspiring Occasion Promising Successful Campaign in County — Major Belton of British Army Chief Speaker — Women to Have Prominent Part.

If the inhabitants of Otsego county respond as fully and heartily to the call for subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty Loan as did the members of the committees of the various town of the county to the summons for a conference upon the campaign for that loan, held at Municipal hall in this city last evening, then the quotas for the county, which one of the speakers said would be at least double that for the previous loan, will be secured and the county will go over the top handsomely. It was a representative gathering of the workers from all parts of the county, the attendance, which surpassed expectations, indicating that popular interest in financing our men at the front is widespread and that Otsego county is fully aroused to the needs of the hour. Gratifying indeed was the interest displayed by the women's committees which in part may be attributed to the keen interest and enthusiastic work of Miss Wardwell of this reserve district and Mrs. Kellogg of the county committee.

It was a gathering that was an inspiration to attend. Each speaker had a message, delivered it cogently and stopped when it had been thrust home to the minds of the hearers. It opened promptly and closed within an hour and a quarter and the gathering ended with the ideas presented fresh and clear in the minds of all.

A. J. McAllister, in active charge of the work in this county for the Fourth Federal Reserve district, presided. The chief speaker was Major Belton of the British army, whose appeal and harrowing tales of Hun atrocities were punctuated with some amusing incidents. He declared that in 3,000,000 American homes it is realized that the nation is at war and the boys who are across the sea need the support of all. The kaiser thinks all you know is to gather dollars, but you are showing him you know how to fight. Show him that you are willing to give to crush German militarism. Give until you have sacrificed. Our motto should be "My country expects me to do my duty, I can do no less."

He told of the conserving power for America that the British fleet has been, how it aided America in getting the soldiers overseas and has ridden the surface of the sea of every trace of German ships. It is up to the men of America to think deeply of what they would feel and do if their wives and children had been subjected to the brutality under the guise of German Kultur which the French and Belgium women have suffered. The speaker was roundly cheered when he declared that we have been fighting four years and we will fight for 40 years until we have the Hun upon his knees crying enough.

Other speakers were E. N. Potter, chairman of the federal reserve district, W. A. Patterson, in charge of the publicity for the district, Mrs. John T. Pratt of New York city, chairman of the Woman's committee for the state, and Miss Florence Wardwell of Springfield Center, chairman for the district, all of whom spoke interestingly. Mr. Potter and Patterson spoke of the plan of work and urged systematic effort with a report from each individual.

ARETHUSA "RUSH WEEK."

Several Parties Held by Normal Sorority—Juniors Are Entertained.

The Arethusa girls of the Oneonta Normal school spent a very enjoyable and highly entertaining "Rush Week." Many homesick Juniors the night of their arrival in Oneonta, were rescued from the station and their rooms and taken to a tea party at the president's home. Here they were made to forget their troubles by the ever-changing program which the Seniors had prepared. During the entire week the scenes were so rapidly changed that the Juniors even forgot to write home to mother. The Country club dance, the theatre party and the corn-dog-marshma low roast were a few of the entertainments of the week. In spite of the uncordial reception which the weather has given the Normals this year, the Arethusa Seniors managed to defy the clouds and the sunbeams shone through at all Arethusa parties.

FUNERAL OF FRANCIS L. HELM.

Masons, Eastern Star and City Band Attend Obsequies.

Funeral services for the late F. L. Helm were held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at the Chapin Memorial church. Many friends of the deceased and a goodly representation of the Masonic fraternity, of which the deceased was a member, were present; as was also the Oneonta City band, of which he was for many years leader and instructor, and which marched with the funeral cortege from the home on Main street to the church, and also to the cemetery where the remains were laid at rest. A dirge was played by the band on the way to the church and also as the cemetery was reached. The members of the Eastern Star also attended in a body. The service was begun by Rev. Mr. Gaskin of the Chapin Memorial church, who read appropriate passages of scripture from the ritual and gave a brief address full of sympathy and of faith. His remarks were followed by Rev. James C. Russell of the First Presbyterian church, who spoke words of comfort to the bereaved and closed with a brief eulogy in which due tribute was paid to Mr. Helm's kindness of heart, his artistic temperament, and the part which during more than a score of years he had taken in the development and training of the musical spirit of the town.

The beautiful floral tributes, including one from the Masonic order and others from friends, bespoke the general sympathy and regard.

Following the service at the church the body was taken to Glenwood cemetery, where the Oneonta Masonic lodge, with F. M. H. Jackson taking for the occasion the station as master, conducted its impressive service. The bearers were F. H. Bresee, F. G. Sherman, O. C. DeLong, U. A. Ferguson, H. D. McLaury and Martin Riley.

FUNERAL OF MR. CARR

Held from His Late Residence Thursday Afternoon, Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Charles H. Carr was held from his late home at 6 River street Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. E. J. Farley, the family pastor, officiated and made brief but consoling remarks, in addition to reading fitting scriptural selections and offering prayer. Miss Florence Beach sang Face to Face and Some Day We'll Understand. The bearers were William Doyle, Frank Crist, William Baker, William Carr, Theodore Eising and Hammond Parish. Interment was in the Plains cemetery.

There were beautiful floral pieces from the Oneonta Typographical union, the Protected Home circle, the Mothers' club of the First Baptist church, the Primary department of the Sunday school of that church, the Carl company and another from its employes of Schenectady, and from the Oneonta Star force.

The relatives from away were Mr. and Mrs. James Managun, Gloversville; Mrs. James Shafer, Miss Mary Carr, Schenectady; William Carr, Plattsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pitcher, Mt. Vision; Andrew Weatherwax, Utica; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fisk and son, William, Plainfield, N. J.; Ora Fisk, Unadilla; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beach, Unadilla.

Funeral of Anson Calkins.

Funeral services for the late Anson Calkins were held at 1 p. m. yesterday at the family residence, 87 Maple street. There was a good attendance of relatives, neighbors and friends met to pay a last tribute to a much-respected man. Rev. Dr. Farley of the First Baptist church officiated, reading appropriate scriptural selections and following with a brief address from the words: "Whatsoever the hand findeth to do, do with your might." The address drew out the thought of the living of a full life, and applied it to that of labor and faithfulness which distinguished the deceased.

Interment was at the Plains cemetery, the four sons of the deceased acting as bearers

AUTO CRASH NEAR DAVENPORT.

M. B. Hillis, on Way to Oneonta, Collides With Arena Car.

Davenport, Sept. 19.—As M. B. Hillis, residing about two miles above this village, was nearing here on his way to Oneonta to bring back a party which had been attending the fair, his car collided with a car driven by a man by the name of Cross, of Arena. The accident occurred early this evening. The Arena car contained three men and two women and it was thrown over a 15-foot embankment and rolled down the hill. Although the car was badly smashed up, fortunately none of the occupants were injured. Mr. Hillis was the only occupant of his car, which was not so badly damaged, one wheel being broken and radiator damaged.

The cause of the collision seems to be rather uncertain. Each driver accused the other of having been at fault. The accident was indeed a fortunate one for all concerned, no harm resulting except the damaging of the cars, which will be easily repaired.

After the ceremony light refreshments were served and soon after the bride and groom, accompanied by the groom's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hess of Bainbridge, departed for a short honeymoon.

CHEER FOR THE BOYS ON LONG TRIP ACROSS

Ten Days on Ocean Heavy Drag on Morale.

DIVERSION ON BOARD SHIP

Amusement, Entertainment and Instruction Fill Up the Weary Hours of Long Voyage—Hear Illustrated Lectures on the Ally Countries and Get Lessons in French—Singing One of the Chief Joys of the Trip.

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.

"When do we leave de sea and git onto de ocean?" asked a worried-looking negro soldier on a transport in mid-Atlantic.

"Why, man, we're on de ocean now, jes' ez much ez we'll ever be," answered his partner.

"Go on. Dis is too smooth for de ocean. Dis is de sea, I tell you."

The next day the season of glassy seas had gone and a lively wind whipped the Atlantic.

"Didn't I tell you? Didn't I tell you?" said the negro soldier. "I knew sure we'd come to de ocean if we kept on travelin'."

But it isn't only among the dark boys in our army that ignorance of the ocean prevails. Not one in a thousand of the million and more American boys in France today ever crossed the ocean; literally hundreds of thousands of them never saw either the Atlantic or the Pacific until they came to the seacoast to take ship for the war. Riding, crowded, in a ship, on a strange ocean is no fun.

How to keep our hundreds of thousands of boys happy and well and as comfortable as possible while they are passing through the strange adventure of getting to France is a task that the army, the navy and the Y. M. C. A. are working out. It's an unblazed trail they are following, but each day with new experiences and new lessons brings them nearer to the mark.

Days Drag Heavily.

Ten days on the ocean is a heavy drag on soldier morale. How to get into those ten ocean days pep, fun, laughter, music and lots of play, as well as lots of drill is no easy problem to solve.

The army men realized, as soon as we began transporting troops to France, that midocean strains on the men might injure their morale considerably and, perhaps, undo much good work that had been previously done in the camps at morale-building.

The navy men, who supervise the transport work, came to the same realization both as regards the troops they transported and their own civilian or merchant marine crews.

And thus the Y. M. C. A. was invited onto the ocean.

The "Y" had to pick its way carefully.

At first, so it appears, the work was not without error.

Being a human institution, the "Y" had to find out, first, how not to do the job. For instance, on several ships a happy-go-lucky type of secretary tried the work. His wholesale "good-mornings," his stories, which he had trained himself to tell and which were never of the zippy sort that the men themselves had at their tongue ends, and his attempts at breezy good cheer all fell flat. He found himself in danger of being considered as excess cargo. On the other hand, the Y. M. C. A. secretary who felt that he was a missionary among a lot of wayward boys found himself left out in the cold. The "Y" leaders have discovered by this time, in the great war, that a "Y" man who isn't liked by all the men with whom he comes into contact had better be called back home.

And now, after several months of experimenting, the Y. M. C. A. has learned that service to the boys and nothing but the best of service is what is needed to make their work efficient. The secretary who goes on each troopship to France keeps himself in the background and only men who can do this are chosen for the work. The "Y" service may stand out but never the man who renders it.

For the first day or two the "Y" man on a transport quietly makes his preparations; the novelty of being on the ocean is claiming the full attention of the thousands of American boys aboard and seasickness has not hit them.

Ready for the Show.

About the second day out the young men are glad enough to read that, in their particular section of the ship that evening, there is going to be a boxing match, or a movie show. Word gets around that a "Y" man on board has brought a library of the latest books with him and thousands of magazines. Punching bags appear here and there. "Where'd yer get those checkers?" the onlookers ask of a team of checker players. They learn that the "Y" man is giving them out to all comers and that he has chess and dominoes, too, for the asking. A medicine ball game, in which scores can play at once, is mysteriously begun on one of the decks. A notice is posted up that some chap who got a decision in one of the boxing rings the night before challenges all comers; it is typewritten on Red Triangle stationery. A checker champion gets the "Y" man to write out and post a challenge for him. In all the several divisions of the crowded ship—for our ships must be crowded to get men enough to Europe for a quick finish of their big job—a phonograph appears at unexpected times of the day or evening. Down in a packed hatchway a white curtain goes up and almost before the men realize it a moving picture show, with the latest and best films, is going at full clip right down in their bedroom.

Bursts of band music strike thousands of tickled ears some evening or afternoon. This means that, with the permission of the commander of the troops, the "Y" man has dug the instruments of a regimental band out of the hold and has put the whole happy band onto his program.

Mysteriously there have appeared among the men sheets on which are printed short lessons in French—French of the sort they'll need. These are studied without fail.

Instruction as Well.

"There will be a stereopticon lecture on France on the deck this evening," is a notice that attracts attention. On the decks that evening the young Americans hear a first-class illustrated lecture about the country to which they are going. Before their trip is ended the boys who are interested enough to attend will have heard lectures of this sort on France, Belgium, England and Italy.

Every now and then, in some mysterious fashion, a big "sing-song" is started. Early in the voyage each man was given a book of songs, on which was the Red Triangle. There are evenings when the spirit of song overwhelms almost everybody on the ship, it seems. A gargantuan orgy of singing ensues. Not every man of the thousands can gather in the same place, so overflow singsongs take place. As many as six different singsongs have been going on at one time on the same deck, in the case of one of our largest transports. It's probably the most music that old Neptune ever heard. When a fellow feels like singing he's got to sing and that's all there is to it. If the feeling takes several thousand young fellows at the same time, what's going to be done about it? It's got to come out; and there you are. Not long ago it is said that on the Atlantic, in different spots, there were 100,000 young Americans bound for Europe. Beyond any doubt it is the biggest cargo the Atlantic ever bore on its great breast and all the great, wet pathway was one long echo of "There's a Long, Long Trail," "Over There," "Good-by, Broadway," and "Long Boy."

Sour Pickle the Cure.

After a few evenings some knight of the boxing gloves has begun to show something better than average form; possible champions begin to loom on the horizon. At least, as the boxing begins to assume a tournament form, with some two or three men putting down all comers, the young men begin to insist on a championship bout. There's a big day when that happens. The band itself will be out in full glory. Every inch of deck, every spar and every hanging-on place will be filled. The two champions will be cheered like fighters in a world's championship event as they climb into the ring. The band will play. The fight will start. And, until one or the other goes down and the victor is acclaimed the best man on the ship, not a boy will think of those things that go to break up morale.

The days of seasickness come, too. With seasickness comes a homesickness. There is one treatment, from the practiced Y. M. C. A. man's standpoint, for both these illnesses, and that is—a big slice of sour pickle. Part of the outfit of every "Y" man on the sea—and there are varying standard outfits, ranging from $150 to $800 in value—is a huge bottle of sour pickles, the sourer the better.

Singing, fighting, games, are good preventatives of seasickness, but sometimes the young men become very ill, and dejected.

By the time the troopship has landed in Europe the boys have got used to the feel of being out of their own country. They have discovered that the good old song, "Over There," sounds just as well over there as it does over here. They have played and sung their way across, without chances for moping or worrying.

The ocean-going "Y" bridges the gap between the "Y" service in the American camp and in the battle zone. It makes it possible to say that every inch of the soldier boy's way, from the time he goes to the camp in America up to the time he comes back again or until he lays himself down for his country in a bed in the soil of old Europe, there is always a Red Triangle in sight, ready to serve him and help him do his big job.

HELPS MOTHER OF SOLDIERS

Yank Takes Woman's Flowers, Collects $40 for Her and Sends Her Home in Taxi.

New York.—A certain white-tiled rendezvous, famed for its batter-cake acrobats, was filled to overflowing early the other morning with the motley jinkle-jumble of night birds, semi-respectables and the curious. The place is all that is left of the pre-war night life of Gotham. A little white-faced woman eddied into the place with just a few bouquets, soiled by an evening of handling, which she shyly tried to sell. On her black blouse was a service pin with three stars. An officer of the National army alone at a corner table washing down a sandwich with a glass of milk saw her.

He did not hesitate. "Come," he said, taking her gently by the arm. "Selling flowers is no occupation for the mother of soldiers. Let me have them." She gave them over with a look of wonderment. He went among the crowds and collected $40 for her for the flowers, then he put her in a taxicab, paying the fare himself, and she rolled away, leaving the officer at the curb with his head bared.

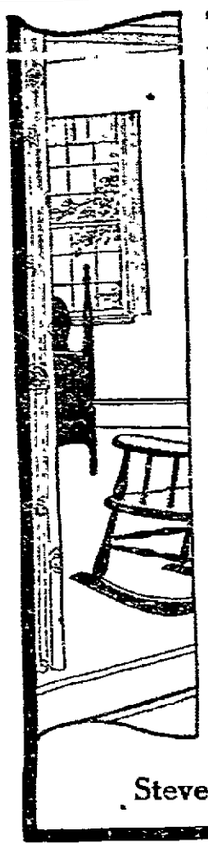

WOMEN WORK ON HIGHWAYS

Take Place of Men Called to War Service in Oregon Highway Department.

Salem, Ore.—Women are replacing men called to war service in the state highway department of Oregon. They are driving water carts used in wetting down macadam roads before they are rolled, and are employed as checkers and weighers at the various gravel pits and rock bunkers. State Highway Engineer Nunn has issued orders that wherever practical they are to replace men, who will be discharged with orders to get into more essential forms of labor.

Strike Big Gas Flow.

Warren, Pa.—A gas well making 15,000,000 cubic feet a day was drilled in by the Pennsylvania Gas company at Bear Creek in Elk county. It is the biggest well drilled in northwestern Pennsylvania in the last three years. Its roar could be heard for two miles.

Good Looking Shoes for Men

Most men are very particular about their shoes. They consider their shoes the foundation of their dress. In the shoe styles we are offering for men this fall, there is a certain amount of smartness that will be appreciated by men who know just what they want. Real mannish styles, built good and strong. Comfort as their keynote.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a [illegible] bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

'TWAS MOTORISTS' DAY

sibly occasional disappointment on the part of exhibitors, it was the general verdict that it was well done. In cases where there was close contest between vehicles decorated with natural and artificial flowers, Mr. Woodruff properly gave preference to the former—something which in other years has not always been done. Altogether the floral parade was one of the best which Oneonta has ever seen. The winners in the various classes were as follows:

Thursday's Races.

After Dexter, George H. Barlow's clever pacer, had gone the first heat of the 2:15 pace and 2:11 trot yesterday in 2:12¾, he lost the race, despite the fact that none of the subsequent heats were made in better than 2:13. Mr. Barlow had many friends in the crowd who were hoping that he could win the race, but Princess Nellie, the Utica mare, took the second heat in a close finish and was not thereafter headed. Princelyne, Dr. Wheeler's entrant, and Robert Frisco, the Lake George offering, tied for third money and will divide the purse.

The 2:20 pace and 2:16 trot from the score would appear as a procession, yet each heat was hard fought, the horses being closely bunched during the six circuits of the track, and any slip of the winner would have been soon seized by one of the other two for a victory. This event, however, was not as interesting as the former one, of the finishes in the other bringing the crowd in the grandstand to its feet.

Following is the score:

2:15 Pace and 2:11 Trot.

Princess Nellie, McGarry	4	1	1	1
Dexter, Barlow	1	2	2	4
Princelyne, Wheeler	3	4	3	2
Robert Frisco, Russell	2	3	4	3

Time — 2:12¾, 2:15¾, 2:15¾, 2:16¾.

Last two divide third money.

2:20 Pace and 2:16 Trot.

Woodlawn Girl, Weaver & Jones	1	1	1
Sherman, Schaub	2	2	2
The Queer Lady, Ballston Co.	3	3	3

Time—2:18¾, 2:17¾, 2:16¾.

AMERICAN FROM SWITZERLAND

CONSUL W. J. PIKE OF ST. GALL IS GUEST OF ONEONTA FRIENDS.

Life in Little Republic in War Time —Sentiments of People Now Pro-Ally—German Avarice and Ingratitude—War Prices in Austria, Switzerland and France — Coal $70 a Ton—Austria's Broken Spirit.

Hon. William J. Pike, now United States consul at St. Gall, Switzerland, but prior to 1916 consul-general at Coburg, Germany, arrived in this city yesterday and for much too short a time is calling on Oneonta friends of the long ago, when he was a pupil of the Oneonta public schools. During his sojourn he will be a guest of M. C. Hemstreet, whom on the occasion of his infrequent trips to America he never fails to visit.

"I left St. Gall six weeks ago," said Mr. Pike to a Star representative," and after spending three weeks in France sailed for the United States on the first vacation I have had for several years. I will probably be in this country about a month longer. The feeling at St. Gall, which is on the Austrian frontier, where at the outset of the war the population was intensely pro-German, has undergone a change and all are hoping to see the Allies win the war. This change of sentiment is due to the terrible conditions which have been forced on the Swiss people on account of the food, and coal shortage and commercial exactions. St. Gall is the greatest manufacturing center for embroideries in the world, and the industry is largely dependent upon the coal supply, all of which comes from Germany. The prices charged by Germany now to the Swiss for coal is $70 per ton, and then only a fraction of that promised is delivered.

"This is bad enough, but the only open road to Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden is through Germany, and that country refuses to ship the goods. As the shipments from St. Gall in ordinary times amount to $50,000,000 a year, it is evident what the attitude of Germany means to manufacturers and workers alike. In eastern Switzerland the German propaganda has bought up all the newspapers, and the only news regarding the war is practically that of Germany itself. Despite this, the people are resentful and in sentiment are now with the Allies.

"The food conditions in Switzerland,' Mr. Pike said, "are terrible. There is a great shortage of all kinds of food, and particularly of fats and sugar. All the milk, cheese and butter go to Germany and other countries in exchange for articles which cannot otherwise be obtained. Everybody is rationed, with a book and coupons and gets only the smallest amount of fats and sugar. My own rations were three ounces of butter and three of sugar a month—a tenth of an ounce daily. My total allowance of fats—and my allowance is that of everybody else—is so small as almost to be negligible. Of black bread of unknown constituents, my allotment is six ounces daily. There is great shortage of meats and of potatoes. A typical breakfast consists of coffee without milk or sugar, black bread without butter or marmalade, and when there is marmalade it is unsweetened. As for prices, they are almost inconceivable. In Geneva on my way out I paid five francs—$1.00—for a ham sandwich with black bread.

"By contrast France seems well fed, since practically everything save sugar, tobacco and white bread can be had if one has the price—at least in Paris and two other cities I visited. Butter, however, is $1.15 a pound and cheese a dollar, while for a small melon 80 cents was asked and for one a very little larger a dollar. The only place where I saw white bread was at a port where American soldiers disembark."

In Austria, where the earlier years of Mr. Pike's consular service were spent, and where he has been occasionally since war began, besides being in touch with the country because St. Gall is only just across the border, matters are deplorable. There are only old men, women and children in the country; the armies have taken all others. There is no gold or silver in circulation, and in fact coin or any form of money has ceased almost to be a basis of trade. Instead the people have reverted to the primitive condition and they barter the things they raise for the things they want. As for the scarcity of fats, he notes that not long ago a goose sold in Bohemia for 330 kroner, about $60, and that this was not for the meat, but for the fat which the fowl contained.

TIME TABLES ARE POPULAR

New Ones Showing Uncle Sam as Boss in Demand by Railroad Employees.

Portland, Ore.—"Please, sir, can I have a time table?" asked a grimy, overall-clad machinist from the roundhouse gang of the trainmaster.

"What the Jim Hill do you want a time table for—going to walk down the track and want to make the siding?"

"No—no, sir. But I'd like to have one of them new ones."

"Everybody on the road from the engine wipers up to the superintendent wants one of those new employees' time tables," said the trainmaster, after the machinist had gone off happy. You know it says on the front cover: 'United States Railroads —Employees' Time Table.' And every railroad man wants one, so he can show that he's working for Uncle Sam."

HONOR CLEVELAND'S HEROES

Plan to Grow Trees in Memory of Soldiers Who Fall in Battle.

Cleveland.—The city forestry department has adopted a plan whereby each Cleveland boy who gives his life in the great war will be remembered. As soon as tree planting time comes this fall a liberty oak will be planted for each boy killed in action or who dies as the result of wounds. The trees will be planted along North Park boulevard, which will henceforth be known as Liberty Row. Each tree will carry a bronze marker bearing the name of a soldier who has died.

It is harmless.

ARE JAILED FOR KINDNESS

Doukhobors' Objection to Working Animals Gets Them Six Months' Sentence

Grand Forks, B. C.—Because they do not believe in working animals, nine Doukhobors are spending six months in jail here. The Doukhobors were convicted of having entered a barn, turned loose the horses, stolen the harness and then set fire to the building.

At the trial the men refused to give their names, saying they are "sons of God." One of them recently burned his title deeds to his property, suggesting it was his intention to "give it to Jesus."

Recently the Doukhobors held a big parade, sans clothing. The party was sent to jail and their fellows surrounded the building, chanting weird songs.
